

A Money Trainers Money Tip Sheet

In this Tip Sheet - Stop Buying Stuff.

That item you have just bought. That new widget, that life changing thing. Let me ask, did it really live up to it's marketing - has it really changed everything for you.

Evidence is much of the stuff we buy does not live up to it's marketing, does not quite hit the mark of 'life changing'. You can apply that to most things you have spent money on in the last ---- whenever.

Each item you consume is taken from raw materials that are taken from the earth somewhere. Each item consumes your cash that you have worked for (traded your life for).

These are two good reasons to stop buying.

If you stop buying clothes for a year (see tip sheet) you won't walk around naked, if you defer the phone upgrade - or wait six months when it's discounted you will trade less of your life for it.

If you miss all the impulse buys online or off.

You will have money saved to reduce debt, to invest for yourself, to use as you wish. To buy experiences, to spend longer with friends and family. To visit places and do, to clear your bucket lists.

The key is you will be in control, it will be your decision.

If the financial advice industry had the answers to true financial independence – they'd do it for themselves first. Fact is, this is true.

Advisers don't make people wealthy. You need more than advice and sadly that's a truth the industry won't admit. Knowing how to make sure your second most important resource works is the most important thing you can ever know. ”
